The Saltiest Ocean.
The origin of the salt in the sea is usually attributed to the constant washing of salts from the land by rain and rivers, and the gradual depositing of them in the sea, through evaporation. In every 100 parts of sea-water there are about two and one-half parts of salt. It has been computed that there are 4,000,000 cubic miles of rock salt in the oceans, 14% times the bulk of the continent of Europe above high-water mark. The Atlantic is much saltier than the other oceans. Prof. Alexander Westwood of St. Petersburg believes that this is due to the large amount of water vapor that is carried on to the continents bordering this ocean, which are comparatively low where they front the sea.—Youth's Companion.

REVELATION OF GOD BY IMPERFECTIONS

The Rev. P. M. Snyder of Rockford Delivers Thoughtful Sermon at Congregational Conference.

That the goodness and greatness of God is the more certainly made manifest through being revealed by the imperfections of men and women, that the ministry of angels or a scroll written across the heavens was the striking thought expressed by the Rev. P. M. Snyder of the Rockford Congregational church in his annual sermon delivered to the convention of the Beloit Association of Congregational churches in this city last evening. The Rev. Snyder took as his text the seventh verse of the fourth chapter of II Corinthians: "But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God and not of us."

"This text," said the Rev. Snyder, "presents a picture that is at once pathetic and grandly inspired. It is pathetic in that we cannot see beyond the earthen vessels, or do more than note their imperfections and faults; it is grandly inspiring in that it realizes how effectively God has used them to accomplish his purposes."

"The Bible itself is a good example. It contains the richest treasures of God's revelation of himself, but we find that the wonderful thoughts and message of God are surrounded with imperfect conceptions of science and of nature, and erudition that are plainly evident. The prophets painted the coming of the Messiah in language that was the inspiration of generations yet how different was the coming of the Messiah to the manner of their prophecy."

"Unfortunately recent criticism has been directed to the pottery of the Bible, the vessel, and not the treasure that it contains. But it could not well be otherwise. Not much more could be said about the treasure, the revelation of God and the message of salvation. That has been proclaimed before and always will be made manifest, whatever the results of biblical criticism."

"The results of this criticism will be interesting and of value, though it often has pathetic consequences. Students failing to see the treasure and observing only the imperfections of the vessel turn the Bible into old pottery. 'Mind Christians lose faith and hope because they cannot distinguish between the treasure and the vessel or stoutly affirm in spite of all evidence and scriptural testimony to the contrary that the vessels are of silver and gold.'

"What difference does it make to us if the prophet failed to predict the trials and temptations that were to befall the children of Israel on their return to Palestine, when we draw from his account the matchless vision of God's care and power? It adds to the significance of the treasure that it is to be found in earthen vessels, and not revealed by the ministry of angels or a scroll-written across the heavens. In the fact that God's purposes were wrought by frail and fallible men and women there lies an inspiration to every man and woman who would walk with God. So it has been all through the ages. The great making councils were centers of petty intrigue and jealous strife, yet they formulated creeds that were a consoling power for centuries."

"In the conversion made by Charlemagne the Inquisition, in the Thirty Years' war, in all the great battles of Christendom we are made conscious of the frailty of God's instruments but if we read sympathetically we will thank God that he used such means."

"The future of Christianity is not dependent upon what critics say about the Bible, the incompleteness of creeds, or the acts of epileptic bodles, but upon witness to the power and love of God. The world is waiting for the manifestation of a vital force, the power of Christ to lift men out of sin and into life in Christ."

A song service was conducted previous to the sermon, by the Rev. L. L. Cory of Clinton, and following the sermon the Rev. A. H. Pennington of Beloit, conducted the communion service.

PREPARING TO OBEY SCREEN ORDINANCE

Croak Brewing Company Consults With Mayor and Councilmen As to Changes to Be Made.

At the invitation of Frank Croak of the Croak Brewing company, Mayor Fathers, Councilman Cummings and Chief of Police Appleby this morning inspected a number of barrooms owned or controlled by that concern for the purpose of coming to an understanding as to what changes would have to be made in the fixtures so as to conform to the provisions of the new screen ordinance. The ordinance goes into effect early next week and the changes necessary will have to be made promptly. In some saloons no alterations will have to be made as the screens are in sections on pivots and can be turned at right angles to the front so as not to obstruct the view of the interior. In other barrooms where the fixtures are supported by floor fastenings the mesh in them will have to be placed on pivots so that they can be turned. The ordinance demands an unobstructed view of the interior of all saloons during the hours and on the days when they are required to be closed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor Gazette:
We do not believe you have stated the case correctly regarding the interference of a deputy game warden relative to the sale of Lake Superior pike by a local grocer. Let us state, please, that we are not at any time seeking to evade the law, and we believe we understand the law's requirements in connection with the sale of fish, and in this case we know we understand our promises full better than did Mr. Mason. Mr. Mason was shown the invoices for the fish from our shipper at Green Bay, and not satisfied with that, we had him talk with Green Bay by telephone. It was from that source that he learned the section of the law pertaining to the sale of pike. We feel we should be set entirely right in the minds of the public, inasmuch as rumor has it that we were arrested and fined.

The Significance of The Convention in Dallas

By W. C. Kenaga.

When you realize that over eight thousand men are today members of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America and that every man of them who can possibly do so is in Dallas attending the eighth annual convention of the A. A. C. of A.—addressing the members present, or listening to addresses by the leading lights in the profession or taking part in discussions of the topics you have an inkling of the significance of such a gathering and its benefits direct and indirect, to you — a reader of advertisements.

Not a man of these enthusiastic exponents of advertising but will come away with new ideas, with a determination to how to the line, to make his copy not only more convincing but more attractive as well.

And you — a reader of advertisements will benefit — not only through better advertising but through better methods, greater sales of various commodities and improvements in service which today may not have been born in the fertile brains of keen advertising men.

If you can get the reading of current copies of "Newspaperdom," "Fourth Estate," "Editor and Publisher," "Printer's Ink," "Advertising and Selling," "The Voice of the A. A. C. of A." or any of the other advertising trade journals you will find pleasure and profit in reading of the proceedings at the Dallas convention and the entertainment extended by the cities of Dallas, Ft. Worth, San Antonio, Galveston and Houston.

SOUGHT TO CHANGE COMMISSION LAWS

Opponents to Present Form of Government Tried to Have Present Law Amended at Special Session.

That opponents of the commission form of government, particularly a certain element who feel their special privileges have been curtailed raised a purse and sent a former city official to Madison during the special session of the legislature to try and have the present law amended so that cities could vote on the question of returning to the old form of government. In current talk on the streets these days, it is said on good authority that the former city official went so far as to have a new law drawn up and presented it to the committee of the legislature. One of this committee stated that they "strong" along the Janesville man and finally told him that they had no authority to pass special legislation at the special session and so dismissed the petition. The local men who contributed to the purse did not even get a run for their money and the former city official is out his time as well. The men who made up the purse are said to be but a small portion of the business men who feel the commission is trampling on their special rights.

Digestible Crust.
There is no difference between the constituents of bread crust and those of the inner part of the loaf. But the Lancet points out that the crust contains much less moisture, and so is richer in solid constituents. There is also an increased amount of soluble carbohydrates in the crust, owing to the action of intense heat upon the outside of the loaf during baking, and its flavor is more stimulating to the flow of the digestive juices. Crust and stale bread are more digestible than the soft interior of a loaf of new bread, because the salivary juices act readily upon the drier breads. Soft new bread is resistant to the salivary attack, and seldom receives the necessary treatment in the mouth. Persons who prefer the crust will be glad to know that in this case the more palatable food is also the more digestible.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS by DAN McCARTY

They are fading away. Who? The coming LaJoies, Cobbs and Wagners, who filled so many columns of valuable newspaper space a few weeks ago, few more days in the next spring.

The latest wrinkle in baseball is the introduction of the press agent. It has always been a snap for dramatic critics on newspapers because the press agents have kept them well supplied with earned stories and unearned pictures. It is now proposed to do the same thing in baseball. This would make it very soft for the sporting editors. Hereafter they have lived the strenuous life, digging out everything for themselves. But if the press agent scheme goes through the sporting editor of the future will be a man of leisure. He will sit idly in the honors in the mite event. He would like to go to Stockholm, too. But unfortunately Jones is poor; too poor, he thinks to afford a trip to Sweden. So he has about decided to stay at home this summer, and work to earn more money to complete his education.

Old "Iron Man" McGillicuddy, the former New York Giant, has been into the "beast" better days' class. He's president, manager and pitcher of the Newark International league club, and they call him "Junk Man" McGillicuddy.

Christy Matheson has embodied a few good thoughts in a recent issue of Donor's Magazine. Here are some of them:

"Take him out in the alley which has always broken the hearts of pitchers and which will always break the hearts of pitchers. The pitcher craves, but that repeated cry sends his nerves, already strung out of the limit."

"A pitcher is frequently beaten, not because he loses his grip, not because of any physical letdown, but because of those three words, very often yelled by the thoughtless fans of his home town."

"Some foolish words once whispered into the ear of a batter by a clever manager at the crisis of one of the closest games ever played in baseball, unbalanced a great pitcher who had been working like a machine, and turned the tide."

"There is a big lot of baseball in big league baseball hitting and catching the ball and running. No man can have a 'yellow streak' and last, every man must hide his flaws. It is all part of the psychology of baseball."

We doff our hats to an athlete at Cornell, John Paul Jones. He is the world's champion miler. At Stockholm this summer he could doubtless well bingle the big Frenchman in the habit of putting over. Now they say that Hank O'Day is a better manager than he was in umpire. No doubt that is true for according to the fans there never was a good umpire in the history of the game.

The Boston Red Sox made a run-getting record in a recent game with the St. Louis Browns, who also came straight were scored by nine successive batters in one inning before anybody was put out.

The St. Louis Cardinals took a hundred per cent better when Roger Bresnahan is on the job. When "Rajah" is again able to work behind the bat the Cardinals percentage should rise like a thermometer in a boiler room.

Edmonton, Alta., May 22.—Tommy Burns will don his fighting togs here tomorrow night and engage in the first ring battle he has had since he lost the championship to Jack Johnson at Sydney, Australia, more than three years ago. MILTON HIGH SHUTS OUT EDGERTON NINE Pitcher Randolph Had Tobacco City Batters at His Mercy and Struck Out Six in Sixth Inning.

Milton, Wis., May 21.—The Milton high school baseball team retrieved their past two defeats today when they shut-out Edgerton high school by a score of 9 to 0. The Edgerton lads had held Whitewater to a 12 to 10 score and had easily defeated Albion Academy, but they were no match for the locals, who hit the ball at will and ran bases in their old-time form. Lamphers lead in the hit column, getting three safe bingles. Randolph had almost perfect control, and had the Edgerton batters swinging at his out-drop continually he struck-out the side in the sixth inning.

The locals will play their next game with a second, Thursday and hope to win a second victory over the Edgerton.

Burns has been quietly training for some time with the intention, it is said, of going after Sam Langford and some of the other big ones if his bout with Connell indicates that he is able to regain his old-time form. Connell, like Burns, is a Canadian product, though he has done most of his fighting outside the country. Those who have watched him train think well of his abilities and many predict that he will be able to stay ten rounds with the former champion.

Three Colleges in Boat Race.

Dartmouth, Mass., May 22.—The most notable aquatic event that is likely to be seen hereabouts this season will take place on the Charles River here tomorrow, when the varsity crews of Cornell, Princeton and Harvard will engage in a two-mile race. It will be the first time since 1874 that Harvard and Princeton have met on the water. As a curtain-raiser to the big triangular race there will be a contest between the freshmen crews of Cornell and Harvard.

"Babe" Adams not up to old form.

The Pittsburgh Nationals have taken a slump this year. They're not playing in their old form. "Babe" Adams, pitcher, who has done such splendid work in the past, seems to be no exception to this rule.

Tommy Burns to fight Jack Connell tomorrow.

Edmonton, Alta., May 22.—Tommy Burns will don his fighting togs here tomorrow night and engage in the first ring battle he has had since he lost the championship to Jack Johnson at Sydney, Australia, more than three years ago. His opponent will be Jack Connell. The Edmonton Athletic club has signed the two for a ten-round fight. Wooden Buildings and Rats. "Why are there so few rats in New York?" remarked a man who knows all the range of nature from bugs to elephants. "Simply because there are so few wooden houses, and especially because there are so many collars and stove walls and concrete floors. If there were no wooden buildings in the city, and none with wood in them, there would be no rats."

The toll of human life is the price of these experience lessons. A costly tribute, and yet often necessary to reform.

SOCIALISM IN GERMANY.

According to statistics, social democracy in Germany casts half the socialist votes for the world. Just why this doctrine is so popular in the "Federation" is made clear by a writer in the June issue of the "World's Work," from which it will be seen that the atmosphere which environs the laboring man in Germany, from babyhood up, makes him a ward of the government. It is not surprising that he should expect something of America, when he adopts this land for a home, and government ownership appeals to him as a remedy for many ills. The writer says:

"A German laborer may begin life attended by a physician or nurse paid by the State; he is christened by a State clergyman; he is taught the rudiments of learning and his handicraft by the State. He is drafted by the State into the army, devoting two of his best years to the drill sergeant. If he falls ill, his suffering is assuaged by the knowledge that his wife and children will be paid during illness, and he spends his convalescence in a sumptuous State hospital.

"If he falls victim to an accident, the ample insurance, even if he be permanently injured, is a balm to his suffering. If he gets out of work, city and State unite to find or make work for him. If he wanders from town to town in search of work, the cities through which he passes offer him free hospitality. If he wishes to move to another part of his town, the municipal bureau will be glad to help him find a house, or even lend him money to get one of his own.

"If he is in dispute with his employer, the government furnishes a court of arbitration. If he is sued by his master or wishes to sue him, the State has provided a special industrial court. If he is in trouble the city places a lawyer at his disposal.

With the cold, wet weather in causing some uneasiness about the crops, and failure is already predicted, it is proving a bonanza for mushroom which develop in a night. Just how this ambitious food product escaped the attention of the tax commission is a mystery. They failed to list the income tax blank, and in the Chicago street car time, and a Chicago man sold seven hundred dollars worth from a crop grown in his collar. Janesville people got their supply from the Court House park, rent free and tax proof.

The result of the Ohio election yesterday does not clear the political atmosphere, so far as the republican party is concerned. Friends of President Taft are disappointed, not only in Ohio, but throughout the country. His endorsement seemed very important, at this stage of the campaign, and it was hoped that the president would carry the day, by a good majority. As it is the fight is likely to continue, with renewed bitterness, and increased demoralization to party warfare.

Justice has been satisfied, and the man Richeson has paid the penalty of his life for the dastardly crime committed. Detective Pinkerton, in a late interview, claimed that there was no criminal class and cited many instances to prove his contention, yet it is difficult to understand how a mind in normal condition can conceive and execute crime. Degeneracy may be the result of environment, and yet Richeson was well envied. That he was morally weak, will not be questioned, and his heart was too corrupt to stand the strain of temptation.

Colonel New, in charge of the Chicago convention, is having all sorts of trouble in trying to find seats for 100,000 people in a hall that accommodates less than 12,000. The republican convention will be of unusual interest this year, and but a fraction of the people who desire to attend, will gain admission. What happens in the hall, however, will be known all over the country, as fast as it occurs, for the news service will be complete, in every detail.

If some of the money wasted on rivers and harbors, during the past decade, had been spent in fertilizing the levees along the Mississippi river the flood which has devastated that region, and rendered so many people homeless, might have been avoided. If the democratic party captures the national administration, there may be something doing to protect the South from flood disasters.

The people of San Diego, California, are to be congratulated on the spirit which influenced them to say to Emma Goldman, "This is no place for you; kindly depart." And then to carry out the invitation by making it impossible for her to go. The coast state may be radical on some propositions, but it has no time for anarchy.

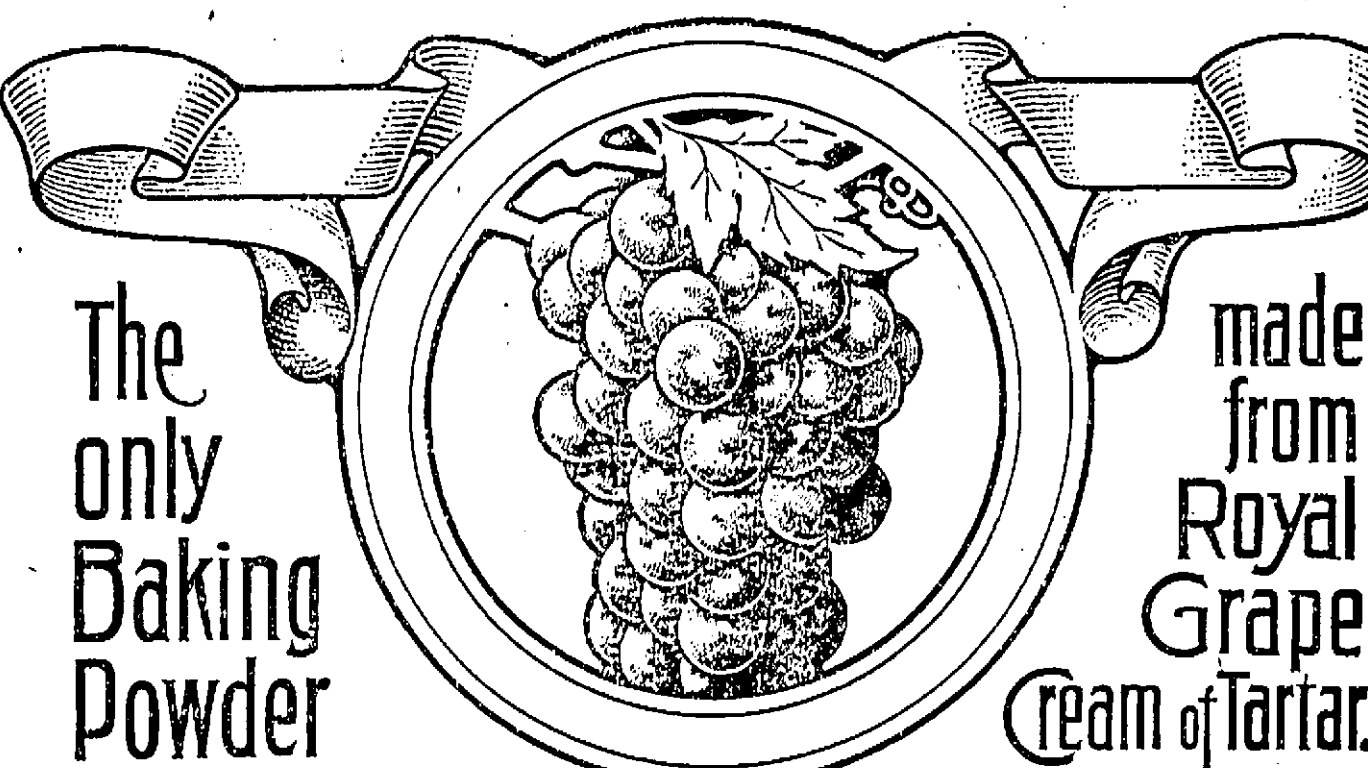

The Chicago Tribune failed to convict Senator Lorimer, and the paper may not succeed in naming the next president. Running the universe is a heavy contract for any publisher except Collier's.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Moulton.

A Latter Day Romance.

The gas was turned on in the conservatory and the strains of orchestra music floated in from the adjoining ballroom. Charles, the millionaire pork butcher's daughter was a dream that night and Harold knew that the psychological moment had arrived. Tenderly he leaned over the divan and whispered in her shell-like ear. (She had two ears, but he used only one) "Darling, will you be mine?"

"Are you sure that you can keep me in the manner to which I have been accustomed?" she asked coyly yet sadly.

"It's a pipe," he replied.

"Can you afford to let me have an egg for breakfast every other Sunday morning?"

"Yes."

"Can we have roast beef at least once a month?"

"Probably."

"Then take me, Harold, for I am yours."

And he took her, but he had lied to her most shamefully.

The Hero.

I'd like to be a hero and drive an aeroplane.

Providing I was certain I could come down again.

And find my bones all fastened each in its proper place.

And have the girls all gazin' raptures on my face.

It's great to be a hero if you can turn the trick.

It's great to be a hero if you can make it stick.

Primrose Day.

Primrose day (in England), the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield, had its origin in the tribute, a modest wreath of primroses, sent by Queen Victoria for the funeral of Beaconsfield. The general impression that the primrose was Beaconsfield's "favorite" flower came from a misunderstanding of the words attached to the queen's tribute: "F. Victoria, his favorite flower." The public thought the queen meant that the primrose was Beaconsfield's favorite flower, when in truth she meant that it was the favorite flower of the prince consort.

Definition of Despondency.

Despondency is not a state of humility; it is the vexation and despair of a cowardly pride.—Fenelon.

old world-over knew.

I'm worth more to my family with my neck safe and sound.

Let me kiss the laurels, I'll stay right on the ground.

Automobiles.

Oh touring car to you I sing, You surely are a wondrous thing, Before you start, I grasp my crank And give it such a vicious yank That it flies back and dolly wrecks The region of my solar plex.

Then I get mad and yank some more And all I get is just a snore. A sort of rumbling puffing sound That seems to come out of the ground.

Then you give one discordant short. One single short and then stop short. And then I have to crank again Till every muscle is in pain. And in an hour, or thereabout, I find the batteries are out.

I get some new ones, put 'em in And with a glad, contented grin I hear your engine start to thrub. And off you go, yes, sure, Bob. I brag about you to my friends, But long before our journey ends They're next to both of us, all right.

The way you act is sure a fright. When I'm alone, you burn the road, But not when I have got a load. Your tires give out and your paint and wheels

And when so slow you make no breeze, You amble on by fits and starts, It seems as though each of your parts Has got an ailment of its own. My friends converse in whispered tone, When finally you give out flat. Ten miles from home as quick as sent.

Your engine gasps and then runs down. My friends and I hiko back to town. Oh, touring car, to you I sing, You vicious and ungrateful thing.

Nervous Children.

The nervous child has in him the making of the brilliant man, but he is generally spotted in the making. You must be patient and long-suffering with the boy or girl of nervous temperament, also you will do your child great injury. Never scold or tease. Never hold the little one to ridicule. Above all never use the whip. It is only by the greatest means that the best can be brought out of the highly strung child, but when the proper course is taken such children are wonderfully responsive.

What a Man is Made Of.

The average man has "ingredients" to make fat for seven bars of soap, iron for a medium-sized nail, sugar to fill a small bowl, salt to fill a shaker, lime to whitewash a chicken coop, phosphorus to make 2,200 match tips, magnesium for a dose of magnesia, sodium to neutralize a pint and a half of water, potassium to explode a toy cannon, sulphur to rid a dog of fleas, and albuminoids to make a case of eggs.—Leslie's Weekly.

TOO MUCH ALBUMEN OVERWORKS ELIMINATIVE ORGANS.

The essential food is albumen, a definite amount of which is necessary, under all circumstances, to support life, as well as to build new tissues in the growing child. But carbon, as sugar, starch or fat, can be much more quickly utilized for maintaining heat and energy. If a sufficient amount of carbon in these forms is not furnished, heat and energy will be sustained by the consumption of albumen, and as the waste products from the consumption of albumen require many times more energy for elimination from the system through the kidneys, the consumption of more albumen than is necessary is a serious error in vital economy. Rheumatism, Bright's disease and other diseases result from the inability of the system to eliminate the excessive waste of albuminous foods.

All He Wanted Was Just Plain Eggs.

A youth entered one of the "ham-and-egg" cafes on Grand Avenue and ordered eggs. "Up or over?" asked the man behind the counter. "I just want eggs," replied the prospective diner. "But do you want them up or over?" repeated the waiter, and again the guest asserted that he desired "only eggs." The third time the party of the second part insisted on his query, whereupon the patron, with a sigh of despair, said "I guess I'll take a steak."—Kansas City Star.

Dress Goods:

A splendid exposition; one that will arouse the liveliest enthusiasm of every woman who beholds this masterful assembly of matchless dress fabrics for spring and summer. Viewed critically and from every standpoint, this is unquestionably the most important and comprehensive sale of dress textiles the Big Store has exploited for some time. Everything new in the realm of dress goods is shown in this lot, in fact—you will observe how 1912 leads over other years. There is more dash and charm, more novelty about the new fabrics than has been seen in previous years.

(By Earl Holman.)
The establishment and equipment of at least one children's playground in Janesville this summer is an end toward which all friends and supporters of the playground movement should direct their energies. It is a noble time is not to be lost in providing the city with a sufficient number of these recognized conservators of the health, morals, and mental rights of youth. Public support for an extended and comprehensive treatment of the problem will not be forthcoming until the value of a playground has been shown by a practical demonstration. The public may be led to admit the utility and need of playgrounds through the arguments made by speakers and in the newspapers, but the enthusiasm and demand for playgrounds and to contribute to the support, can only be aroused by actually showing what they will do for their children.

Modest Beginning Advisable.
Enthusiasm for the ideal to be attained should not blind the friends of the playground movement to the actual situation, or prevent them from taking the necessary steps toward a modest beginning. "In one city," writes Lee P. Hamner, Field Secretary of the American Playground Association, "a woman's club has worked for three years trying to get the city authorities to make an appropriation for playgrounds. They did not start the work themselves for fear that they would thus establish a precedent that would make it difficult to get municipal support for playgrounds later. If they had started, and successfully conducted a playground the first year that they began agitating the matter, it is probable that by this time the city would have been supplying the funds. They were surprised to find that this was the method by which the majority of playgrounds have been established."

Private Initiative Suggested.
The history of playgrounds in America bears out this statement. The playground movement, in New York, was started by private individuals. The movement in Philadelphia was first ignited by several societies, such as the Civic Club, the Culture Extension League, the City Park Association, and the College Settlement. The United Women of Maryland inaugurated the work in Baltimore, and in San Francisco the California Club, composed of women, took the initial step. Starting a good playground by way of an object lesson is effective, especially so where there are no good playgrounds near enough for the citizens to be familiar with them.

Campaign Possibilities.
Spirited campaigning to awaken public interest and secure financial support, and with it capable leadership and organization is needed to accomplish the work outlined, the obtaining of one equipped playground in Janesville this year. The suggestion has already been made that a meeting be called for the purpose of forming a local playground association to be affiliated with the Playground Association of America, and it is hoped that such a meeting will be called as soon as possible. Connection with the national association would bring within easy reach many effective means for prosecuting a campaign. Besides possessing a mine of information on the subject available for distribution, they have men and women available for immediate service as speakers and organizers. The American Civic Association of Philadelphia has a department of "Lafayette slides" which local speakers can use in preparing a talk, also a public recreation department of which Mrs. George W. French, Portland, Maine, is executive head, which has helpful material available for use.

The Choice of Site.
It will rest with the playground association, or whatever body of individuals assumes its responsibilities, to determine the site of the first playground. Purchase of land at this stage of the movement is hardly to be considered. Their choice will undoubtedly fall in one of the larger school grounds, a portion of public park, or a convenient vacant lot which can be leased. The consent of school board or council will have to be obtained in the former two instances. Central location will of course be one of the determining factors in the choice of a site. Public spirited citizens might object to the use of a piece of land for a year or two. By that time the people will be educated far enough to demand extension. The first step toward securing playgrounds must be taken by earnest and altruistic individuals who will raise the dead weight of indifference, and support their convictions with their money.

Bolton Makes Beginning.
While Janesville has been debating, Bolton has been acting, and moving ahead. According to the Bolton News of Wednesday evening:
"The Wright school playground—or at least a substantial start for it—is now assured, as a result of the canvass of the city completed by the children of the school yesterday. The sum of $107 was collected by the little folks, the majority of this being in small amounts. The donations ranged from about 14 cents up to 50 cents, the latter being a 'large' donation.
There were 360 children enlisted in the movement and they worked two weeks. Each child was given a card, explaining the purpose of the movement. To the card was attached a small stocking in which could be dropped whatever amount the child wished.
Miss Jones, principal of the school, is pleased with the result. She stated today that plans would be made at once for the equipping of the playground. She says $107 will not completely equip such a ground, but it will enable the teachers to make a good start. It is hoped to have the ground ready by September. The initial equipment will consist of swings, ladders, giant, strider and horizontal bars. Everything will be hung on steel frames and will be practically indestructible. It is the plan also, to have a ball ground laid out in connection.

The teachers hope that the ground will be made in reality a "public" playground. They do not intend it to be solely for the use of the Wright school children, but hope that any child in the city may be allowed to go there. This will probably have to be settled by the school board or the district.

What Madison Has Done.
The experience of Madison with playgrounds, being that of a city near at hand and confronted with conditions very similar to those of Janesville, should be of great interest at this time. According to the report of Superintendent Dudgeon for 1911:

"The playgrounds of Madison will open this summer about June 15 and continue until about September 1. The Burr-Jones and Brittingham fields are the two principal playgrounds. In addition, several school playgrounds may be used as centers of play. The board of education is now equipping the different ward school playgrounds with splendid outfits for play, the schools are making the playgrounds for the cost and installation of the equipment. The board is installing the equipment, the board is in repair and supervise it when it is once in. These equipments are now in use at the Lapham and Bryant schools—others, the Irving, Hawthorne, Marquette, Dwy, Draper, Washington, Longfellow and Randall, will soon have equipments and playgrounds."

"The work carried on this summer will be practically the same as in other cities. Local conditions taken into consideration. Baseball leagues will be formed, the only department of a child being on a league team is the condition that he has made his best record; valley ball, will be played; special attention will be given to games and hours set for them; special attention and instruction will be given to corrective work to defective children; athletic games and sports will be encouraged, bronze and silver pins will be given for proficiency in various games and sports; special instruction in swimming will also be given."

The playground committee of the Board of Education has an equal appropriation of $2500, to equip and maintain all the playgrounds during the season. This includes the salaries of six or more instructors.

Forest H. Staley, recently appointed head of Madison's playground association places the advantages of playgrounds under seven captions:
The physical advantages; playgrounds will bring regularity and order to a community; playgrounds will give comfort to mothers and friends at home, knowing that the children are playing under careful supervision; playgrounds develop self supervision; playgrounds play life and bring happiness; playgrounds are indispensable for formation to ideal character; playgrounds prevent tuberculosis; playgrounds are a great preventive of crime.

Judge Ben H. Lindsey, one of the originators of the juvenile court, who knows boys through and through, urges that it is no answer to the demand for the public playground to say that at what is needed is the occasional vacant lot for the boy of the city. He declares:
"Even this vacant lot, with or without a trellis sign, is passing away with the old swimming hole. If it exists, its joys are mingled with the terror of the policeman, 'Keep off the grass,' the broken window, the grumpy neighbor, and the danger that come through energy undirected through suppression and wise direction. Our plea for public playgrounds is a plea for justice to the boy."
Ex-President Roosevelt, in one of his messages said that "playgrounds are a necessary means for the development of wholesome citizenship in modern cities."

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY
LAFAYETTE'S FIVE YEARS IN PRISON.

By A. W. MACY.
After General Lafayette's gallant services in behalf of the Americans during the War of the Revolution he returned to his native country, and in the early stages of the French Revolution became involved in the factional strife. During the Reign of Terror commissioners were sent to arrest him, but he escaped out of the country. He was captured by an Austrian patrol, and delivered to the Prussian authorities. By them he was confined in a miserable dungeon at Magdeburg for a whole year, and then turned over to the Austrian government. He was taken to Olmutz and thrown into a dungeon there, whose walls were 12 feet thick. He was provided with a bed of rotten straw, and a part of the time was chained to the walls. In spite of the remonstrances of America, England, and liberty-loving people everywhere, he was kept a prisoner here four long years. To every appeal the Austrian government replied that his liberty was incompatible with the safety of Europe. Finally Napoleon threatened to crush the Austrian government to powder unless it released Lafayette. This had the desired effect, and he was released. When he thanked Napoleon, the latter replied, "I don't know what the devil you have done to the Austrians, but it cost them a mighty struggle to let you go."

OLD SOLDIERS SEEK
USE OF AUTOMOBILES

To Carry Veterans to the Cemetery
Decoration Day at Nine in The Morning.

Members of the William H. Sargent Post of the Grand Army of the Republic would like to have the automobile owners of the city donate the use of their cars to carry the old soldiers to the cemetery at nine o'clock on Decoration day morning. They appreciate that it would be too much to ask the owners to remain there during the long service and bring them back to the city, so want only the trip out donated, they will come back by street cars later themselves.

For the past two years the practice of conveying the veterans to and from the cemetery has been practiced here and other cities are likewise planning for similar work this year. The members of the local post will assemble at nine sharp and be ready to go to the cemetery at that hour.
Charles Evans who has charge of the transportation asks that all auto owners who will donate the use of their car on that day for the trip to the cemetery please notify him by telephone or by postal so he can make arrangements accordingly.

ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Graduates of Janesville High School
Will Hold Meeting to Elect
Officers of Association.

Alumni of the Janesville high school will hold a meeting on Friday evening at the high school building to elect officers for the coming year, and to make plans for the annual alumni banquet to be held at the close of the commencement exercises in June. Other matters of importance are to come before the meeting and the officers desire a large attendance. It is planned to make the alumni banquet this year the best that has ever been held in the high school building. Interest in these annual affairs has been revived among the alumni the past few years and it is proposed to make the coming banquet the most successful of all. Graduates of the class of 1907, it is understood are discussing the possibilities of holding a reunion at the banquet.

A recently invented aluminum apparatus makes the most minute details of a fracture distinctly visible. Aluminum is no more an obstacle to the X-rays than clear glass is to the light. As the metal is transparent to the rays the operating surgeon can examine the fracture without haste or difficulty, closing his apparatus only when every fragment has been put in place.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, May 22.—The street improvement assessment committee were in session yesterday afternoon to hear objections to the improvement of Fulton, Swift, and Henry streets. The meeting was not an enthusiastic one as but few interested parties attended. Attorney L. E. Goffe appeared for several taxpayers and raised some objections to the improvement of Swift street until after proper drainage was provided for. The work will probably be carried forward as objections were not sufficient to stop it.

EVANSVILLE MAN IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

Caleb E. Lee, Chief Engineer U. S. N. Retired, Passed to the World Beyond.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Evansville, May 22.—Caleb E. Lee, aged seventy-seven, and since 1885 a prominent respected citizen of Evansville, passed away this morning shortly after two after a short illness. Previous to coming to Evansville to make his home Mr. Lee served for fifteen years in the United States navy, holding the position of chief engineer and being retired in 1876 with the rank of lieutenant commander.

Caleb Lee was born November 19, 1835, in Pennsylvania. With his parents he came to Wisconsin in 1848 and took up residence in 1851. In 1854 he joined the machinery trade with the old hand foundry company and was sent by that firm to Milwaukee in 1857 to set up machinery sold by the company.

It was while he was on this journey he began his marine career and in 1858 he became chief engineer of the old upper Mississippi river packet North Star, one of the famous boats of the early river navigation days.

In 1859 he went to New York and entered the employ of the North River Iron Works, as a special construction engineer for steamboats. During the next two years he studied at the Peter Cooper Institute night school and in 1861 enlisted in the United States navy, being assigned to the Anacosta as chief engineer.

His naval career was full of active service, serving in the Potomac flotilla, taking part in the bombardment of Port Royal under Admiral Dupont and while on the Potomac he aided in blocking the Charleston harbor by sinking old whalers at the channel mouth to prevent blockade runners from reaching that port. Later he took part in the bombardment of Mobile and was transferred to the Tahoma, later joining the Wasp, Kansas, Huron and touring the coast of South America and Africa. He then expended two years' shore duty on the Mississippi river naval station as chief engineer and visiting Panama and finally reaching the Mobile naval depot where he was retired in 1876.

He came back to Wisconsin and settled in the town of Magnolia on a farm. In 1885 he moved to Evansville and entered the harness business, taking a prominent part in civic life, serving six years as member of the county board and also holding important city offices. He was a member of Lodge No. 32, F. & A. M., Knights of Pythias, and of the G. A. R. In 1911, by special act of congress, he was given official retirement with rank of chief engineer, ranking as lieutenant commander. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

INSPECTION SYSTEM BENEFIT TO PUBLIC

"Thousands of Dollars" Saved to Consumers by Provisions of Weights and Measures Act.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., May 22.—During the first three months of the operation of the new weights and measures law this year, 64.1 percent of the 18,395 weights and measures inspected by the state department were correct. The number adjusted was 6.2 percent and the number sealed 29.7 percent of the total. The number condemned for repairs was 1,561, or 10.6 percent, and the number condemned absolutely was 3,152 or 17.1 percent. It is not possible to estimate with any degree of exactness the pecuniary saving to the people of Wisconsin from the enforcement of the new law. State Inspector Fred D. Downing says it will amount to "thousands of dollars." In the department's office in the capitol is a forcible exhibit in the form of a pyramid, ceiling-high, lined with confiscated measures of every description. There is a "two-gallon" dry measure which is one pint short. Bottomless measures, now officially prohibited, are numerous. Liquid measures lined with congealed molasses to an extent as to deprive the buyer of full measure are conspicuous specimens in this interesting exhibit. The rims of some measures made of paper have been cut off to make their contents smaller. One of the specimens is a small copper container confiscated from a saloon. A lot of these have been seized. During the first three months this year, 2,525 scales were inspected, of which 8.1 percent were condemned; 11.6 percent were condemned for repairs; 45.8 percent were adjusted, and 74.5 percent were sealed. Only 6.3 percent were correct. The showing is worse with respect to dry measures. Of the 440 tested, 72.5 percent were condemned and 5.3 percent were condemned for repairs. Of liquid measures, 6,443 were inspected, 24.4 percent were condemned and 1.8 percent condemned for repairs. Four thousand seven hundred eighty-two weights were examined, 2.4 percent were condemned, 3.5 percent condemned for repairs, 10 percent adjusted, and 93.6 percent sealed. This shows that 85 percent were correct. Thirty-seven percent of the 2,615 linear measures were condemned, 41.8 percent condemned for repairs, and 24.8 percent sealed. There were 1703 misinspections. At present, the situation with respect to berry boxes as a result of the amended law is demanding the time of the entire force of inspectors who are working in various cities in the state.

WITH THE BOXERS.

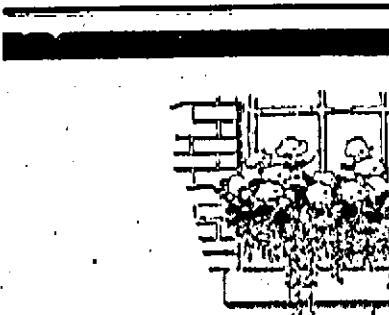

Packey McFarland says he expects to clean up a million dollars before he quits the boxing game. Jim Barry, the Chicago heavy-weight, made a big hit with the fight fans during his stay in Australia. Al Volcan will take a long rest as his recent bout with Willie Heche convinced him that he was in a weak condition.

GARDENS AND LAWNS ATTRACTIVE

Are the Impelling Motive in Much of the Moving That is Now Taking Place.

Scores of Janesville families have moved in the past two weeks and hundreds will move in the next month and probably the reason that has caused this moving is that many have been the universal desire to get away from the flat and apartment and into the open, with lawn and garden. Real estate men are prone to take advantage of this feeling and just now the "Want ad" columns are full of desirable homes for rent. A house with yard and garden finds a tenant waiting. If you are planning to move and are following the Want Ads and don't locate just what you wish the easiest way is to run an ad yourself, telling exactly the kind of home for which you are searching.

Generally, when a man gets justice in court it is because he has been dragged in.

Artistic Window and Porch Boxes

Every home should have a garden. Growing flowers in the window, on the porch in boxes, or in hanging baskets, are constant sources of enjoyment and pleasure.

We are making a specialty of this kind of work. Besides many ideas, we have a large and varied stock of suitable flowers and plants, and the right kind of boxes, baskets and pots.

The moderate cost will surprise you. Let us equip your porch and windows. Estimates on request.

GRADUATING CLASS WAS ENTERTAINED

Prof. and Mrs. West and Dr. and Mrs. Burdick Gave Party for Seniors Last Night.

Members of the senior class of the high school, were entertained in a most delightful manner yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Prof. A. B. West at Milton. Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Burdick of this city, joined with Prof. and Mrs. West in giving the party which was the first social event of the commencement season. Luncheon was served shortly after six and the young people had a merry time finding their partners by means of a game of riddle. The riddles were given to the boys and the answers to the girls with the requirements that the former find satisfactory answers for the same among the young ladies.

The dining room was very prettily decorated with white flowers, apple blossoms and violets and a delicious menu was served. After the luncheon a short musical program was given by a quartet from Milton college and several numbers were also sung by the senior quartet composed of Misses Margaret Doty, Sara Garbutt, Allison Burdick and Stanley Metcalf. Afterwards the entire class joined in a songfest. The event will be one long to be remembered by the present high school seniors.

High School News.

The Laurion banquet which was to be held last Friday evening, will be held Thursday evening at the high school auditorium.

Miss Brown who has been ill at her home in Brodhead, has again resumed her duties at the high school.

The seniors who are to be in the class play are practicing very faithfully every morning at the high school under the direction of Mrs. Day.

Senator Joseph Bailey.

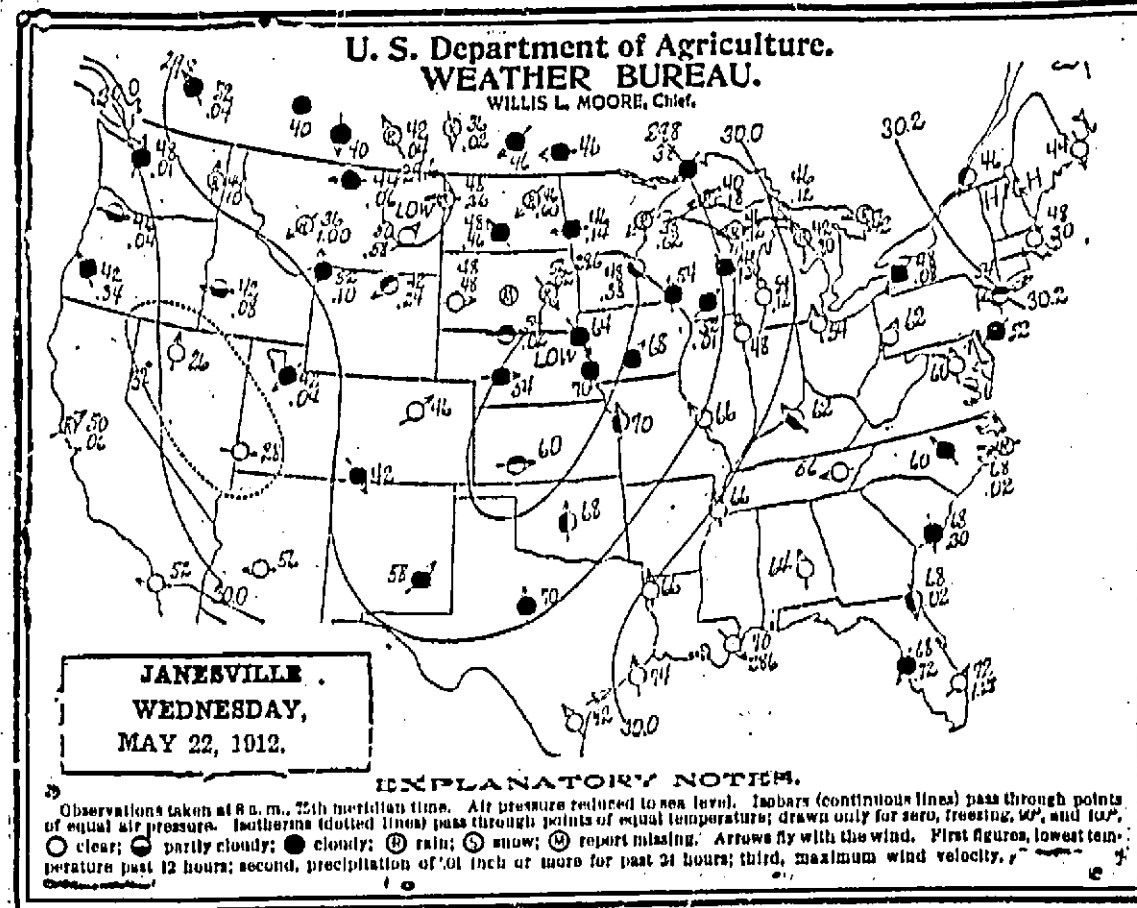

Senator Joseph Bailey, of Texas, is a deeply loved constitution. He dates on it. He has awake nights thinking of how ways in which to defend it. His usual method of defending the constitution is to attack proposed laws which he thinks infringe upon it. No other member of the upper chamber has fought so many bills which have later become laws on the ground of unconstitutionality. If the constitution has feelings it will doubtless feel very bad when Mr. Bailey leaves the Senate next.

Wouldn't Try It On Himself.

"And you didn't know it was loaded?" "No, Judge, I swear I didn't." "But before pointing it at the deceased, why did you not look into the barrel to see whether or not it was loaded?" "Why, Judge, that would have been a fool thing to do! It might have exploded and killed me."—Houseton Post.

Preparation for Immortality.

There is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to love this life, and live it as bravely and cheerfully and faithfully as we can.—Van Dyke.

May 22.—The barometric depression in the West is now advancing eastward. Its center which has deepened has reached the Missouri valley. Showers and thunderstorms continue to attend this disturbance throughout the Northwest. The area of heavy rainfall that was in this vicinity day before yesterday has shifted northward to northern Minnesota, and northwestern Wisconsin. Escanaba reports 1.12 inches of rain fall, and Green Bay 1.39. It is rainy on the Pacific coast. Colder weather prevails in the Great Basin, temperatures below freezing being reached this morning in Nevada and southern Utah.

Necessity of Good Nature. There is no society or conversation to be kept up in the world without good nature, or something which must bear its appearance, and supply its place. For this reason mankind have been forced to invent a kind of artificial humanity, which is what we express by the word "good-breeding." For, if we examine thoroughly the idea of what we call so, we shall find it to be nothing else but an imitation and mimicry of good nature, or, in other terms, affability, complaisance and easiness of temper reduced into an art.—Addison.

The Leisure Problem.

SOME one has said that the chief problem of this country is not the labor problem, but the leisure problem.

This seems somewhat ironic to those of us who are so rushed with work that we never have a minute we can call our own. But nevertheless, there is a leisure problem, and it is one that needs considering. The hours of work among those who work on time are gradually being shortened. And though some of those who are thus benefited have recreation or work waiting to fill this extra time, many of them do not. This is evidenced by the groups of men and boys standing on street corners or drifting into saloons or pool-rooms because they do not know what to do. These have no resources within themselves for utilizing this spare time, and so they take what is offered them. And few yet have thought to offer something worth while. So far only those are on the job of filling this idle time, who can make money by doing so. So here indeed is a leisure problem for those interested in the common good.

Still larger is the leisure problem of the women who no longer have the household cares that formerly were theirs. By this is not meant the very wealthy, for they have so many social duties that they really have very little leisure time. But in hotels and apartment houses and boarding houses are women by the thousands who have leisure time. The hours hang heavy on their hands. They shop, play cards, read novels,—do anything to kill time. But many are not happy in these diversions. They are bored, dissatisfied, irritable, and finally, often become nervous wrecks, simply because they sit with idle hands and idle minds in this busy, bustling world.

So here is a problem for those who like to work at such things,—a great lot of valuable time that is not being used, many people who would like to have something to do, and much work to be done. For that there is much work needing to be done, nobody will deny. So the problem is to combine these three factors into a force for productivity and happiness.

And the best time to take note of this leisure problem is now in its very inception, before the forces in it become destructive to society. For unfortunately that is the direction in which many of them turn, it is unguided. The idle men and boys loitering on street corners turn to evil. The idle women turn to amusements and luxuries that are bad in their effect upon the community. Here and there in these groups are some who will pull out. But the majority take the course of least resistance,—and for some ineradicable reason this seems to be the broad, and not the narrow, way.

So those in the vanguard, those who can devise the means to meet a need will find here a problem requiring careful study, and whose solution will vitally affect the future welfare of our country, either for good or ill.

resorts to the same treatment when the baby's grown,—he gives a dose of poor food, guards who are not too gentle, and the other unpleasant surroundings of a home of correction, or the promise of it, as the sure way of making the grown-up baby understand the misery he is providing for the little ones in his power.

Just how lacking the play is that begins at home is wonderfully and convincingly brought out in Edwin LeFevre's story, "The Reason Why." In a May magazine, it shows how the lack of this kind of play is largely responsible for our failure to be a democratic nation.

The hero loves his children. A lost job places them in want and although he's offered a hundred a day if he can keep their need before him constantly enough to earn it he can't—because, like the ex-mayor, he's too interested in caring about other people, just as fathers of lesser income are generous enough to strangers, else why have the Salvation Army people found the saloons where the fathers spend their wages such good fund collecting places.

Maudlin pity, disinterested pity, noisy pity, plenty of all kinds but the home variety, that's why we don't progress faster.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

A FEW USES. FOR LEFTOVER FRUIT.

Ripe fruit is so perishable that a large supply should never be bought. An orange that shows signs of softening is not fit for food. It should never be canned or preserved. Perfectly fresh fruit is the only safe kind to eat.

If there is a small dish of canned fruit with jelly, rub the fruit through a sieve, thicken with cornstarch and sweeten if necessary, and use as a sauce for puddings.

Bits of fruit, either fresh or canned, if put through a sieve may be added to ice cream when partly frozen, or poured over it as a sauce when it is served.

A small amount of fruit may be stirred into muffins or small cakes before baking. Often fresh fruit, if a small quantity is allowed to spoil because there is not enough to go around, two or more kinds may be mixed together very acceptably as a salad or fruit to serve as a dessert with cake.

Fruit Whip.—Put a little crushed sweetened fruit in lemonade glasses, fill up with sweetened whipped cream and serve as an evening dessert with light cakes.

Emergency Salad.—Cut a few bits of cheese into neat cubes; chop six or eight olives. Break a few English walnuts into pieces, a few grapes, seeds and skins removed; a banana and orange, a sour pickle cut in thin slices. Mix all together and fill apple cups. Cut the stem end off carefully, scoop out the pulp and fill with the salad, after mixing with mayonnaise dressing. Put on the lid and serve on a paper doily, covered, plate.

Lemon Cups for Dressings or Cocktails.—When making lemonade save the best halves by putting them into cold water. In this way they will keep for several days, and are also used for hard sauce receptacles or cocktails or fish sauces; any number of ways may be thought of to use them.

Lemons may be prepared into lemon sirup and kept indefinitely and are always ready for a quick, cold drink. To a cup of water add a half cup of sugar and a cup of lemon juice; boil for ten minutes and bottle for use. Keep in a cool place.

A Simple Way to Make Soft Soap

While its use is not general, some housewives prefer for certain cleansing purposes to use soft soap, or soap in paste form, believing it more convenient or economical than ordinary soap.

Gold Dust washing powder can be converted into the finest soft soap by dissolving it in hot water in the proportion of a heaping tablespoon of the powder to each quart of hot water. When cool, it is ready for use.

Gold Dust works more thoroughly and quickly than soap or other cleansers.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHICH WAS SUCCESSFUL?

MOLLY, the little stenographer lady, was much stirred up. So was the last open fire of the season, before which we were sitting. "That woman" had stirred up Molly, and Molly stirred up the fire, a perfectly good fire, too—the waste-to-be-cynic built it.

Molly had been job hunting, not for herself—Molly's employer is still in his right mind—but for another girl.

"You know, big sister," related Molly, "this girl has only had high school stenography, but she's the kind of a girl who will work her head off if you give her a chance, and she just had to have a position right off, and a friend of mine sent her to me, so, of course, I had to find her something. I thought of Miss Ellis right away. She's tremendously successful—she works for a big firm that employs ever so many girls, and they say she has great influence, so I knew a word from her would get my girl a chance. And then I remembered that Miss Ellis had only high school stenography when she started, and had a terrible time getting a place, so I felt sure she'd understand."

"Well, big sister," Molly drew a long, sighing breath and poked the fire fiercely—"well, I hated to ask it because I never could abide the looks of her, but I remembered what a time I had getting my first position, so of course I went to her. And what DO you think she said?"

Molly paused dramatically, but no one seemed inclined to hazard a guess.

"Well," continued Molly, "she said, 'I came to this city with no more training than your friend had, and in just as tight a place, and no one helped me to get my position.' Then, of course, I thought she was going to say how hard it was and how she'd like to make it easier for this girl, but she didn't. Instead she just sat there glaring at me, and finally she said again, 'I guess I had about as hard a time as any girl could have, and nobody ever helped me. And then I realized that she meant that as a reason why she WOULD help the girl, instead of why she WOULD, and I said, 'Oh, and get up and come out. And what do you think of that, big sister?'"

"Why no," said Molly, "I don't know any one. That's why I know how it felt and wanted to help her."

Said the much-who-thinks, "Did I hear you call Miss Ellis successful?"

"Oh yes," said Molly, "she's terribly successful. Why, they say she gets at least thirty dollars a week."

"And still a failure," murmured the man-who-thinks half to himself. "Why, what do you mean by that?" said Molly.

"To mean," said the waste-to-be-cynic, quite forgetting his proper role—and that was especially nice of him for Molly in the course of her "stirring" story had quite spoiled his perfectly good fire—"It means that we have the really successful stenographer right here with us."

And no one disputed his interpretation.

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What colors are most suitable for a blonde to wear? (2)—Do you know of a good whitener for the teeth? (3)—Does peroxide grow hair on the face, or does it prevent the growth. (4)—Is a person with brown eyes and hair that is neither light or dark called a blonde? BROWN EYES.

(1)—Good colors for a blonde are light and dark blue and white. If the complexion is very clear, lavender and the violet shades may be worn. Care should be taken in the choice of such colors, however. (2)—Use a good tooth paste or powder, and brush the teeth regularly. Some dentists advise the use of diatomaceous earth, which cleans the teeth, whitens the teeth, and discolors the hair on the face, and discourages its growth. (3)—A person with brown eyes and hair that is not light should be a sombrunette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My father drinks and our home is unhappy. I have been going with a young man six months and I like him very much. I know he wants to call on me, but I don't like to have him know what kind of a home I have. He has asked me to marry him, but he is poor and I know my parents would be against him. Please tell me what to do. H. B. G.

Judging from your letter, you are still quite young, too young to think of marrying. Do the best you can under the circumstances, trying to make things more pleasant at home. The young man, though poor now, may be in better circumstances by the time you are old enough to think of marriage.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me if a girl of twenty is too old to wear her hair down her back. I wear my hair in one long braid, and my friends tell me I am too old. I do not look old, and I like the present plan. GRACE T.

I agree with your friends that you should give up the plan of wearing your hair down your back, even though you do appear younger than you are.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you help me in a very embarrassing matter? I am in love with a girl my brother is engaged to marry, and she says she cares for me more than my brother. I don't wish to be dishonorable, but the girl seems to be unhappy over the idea of going ahead with her part of the contract. What can we do? My brother apparently does not know.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you tell me where I could buy a dictagraph? Could I make one myself, and if so, how? If bought, what would one cost. READER.

Always Tired, With Little Vitality

Modern Tonic, Tona Vita, Will Surely Build You Up Again.

Are you one of the run-down, half-sick nervous people with which the country is filled? Do you feel tired all the time with little vitality? Do you sleep badly and feel as worn out in the morning as when you went to bed? Is your circulation poor and do you catch cold easily? Have you stomach trouble and an irregular appetite? Are you nervous, moody and depressed?

These are sure symptoms of nervous debility. If you are struggling along in this miserable condition the best thing you can possibly do for yourself is to take "Tona Vita" the wonderful new tonic that has the unqualified endorsement of more physicians than any other medicine ever before offered to the public.

Here is what the Rev. Gustave Frederick, pastor of the Evangelical church, Center Street, Milwaukee, Wis., has to say of it.

"Judging from my own experience I do not hesitate to say that 'Tona Vita' is an extremely valuable preparation. I have not only used it myself, but other members of the family have been taking it with highly satisfactory results."

"So far as my own case is concerned I have been in a run-down condition for a year or so, feeling easily and being troubled with sleeplessness. I lacked vitality and caught cold readily, and my digestion and appetite were poor. I was depressed in mind and body and very nervous."

"I now feel stronger than for a long time. I have more energy and my work is done with much less effort. I sleep and eat better and feel as though rejuvenated."

Tona Vita acts quickly. You will be surprised how rapidly it will build you up.

Smith Drug Co., have the agency for Tona Vita in Jamesville, and will return the purchase price if not entirely satisfactory. The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

I am not sure whether you have in mind the commercial phonograph, used in taking dictation for the use of a stenographer, or the apparatus employed by detectives in spying on the conversation of suspected persons. The Columbia and Edison Phonograph companies sell commercial dictagraphs or dictaphones for about $150 each. I doubt if you could make one, partly on account of mechanical difficulties, and partly on account of protecting patents. If you have the detective's apparatus in mind, I fear I cannot inform you. The latter is in reality a telephone set in compact form. The transmitter, about the size of a watch, is hidden behind a desk or calendar in the room under surveillance. Wires connect the transmitter with a receiving apparatus, held by handpiece to the ear of the person taking notes. A battery furnishes current.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—No indeed! Selecting an automobile is no child's play.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By
GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1907, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"I don't suppose there ever was a very fine point to anything but I missed it," said Wesley, "because I am blunt, rough and have no book learning to speak of. Since you put it into words I see what you mean, but it's dinged hard on Elvira, just the same. And I don't keep out, I keep watching closer than ever. I got my slip in the face, but if I don't miss my guess, Kate Comstock learned her lesson, same as I did. She learned that I was in earnest, that I would haul her to court if she didn't loosen up a bit, and she'll loosen. You see if she don't."

Up in the attic Elvira lighted two candles, set them on her little table, stacked the books and put away the precious clothes lovingly. Then she slipped into her little white nightdress, shook down her hair that it might become thoroughly dry, set a chair before the table and reverently opened one of the books. A stiff draft swept the attic, for it stretched the length of the cabin and had a window in each end. Elvira arose and, going to the east window, closed it. She stood for a minute looking at the stars, the sky and the dark outline of the struggling trees of the rapidly dismantling Limberlost. In the region of her case a tiny point of light flashed and disappeared. Elvira straightened and wondered. Was it wise to leave her precious money there? The light flashed once more, wavered a few seconds and died out. The girl waited. She did not see it again, and so she went back to her books.

In the Limberlost the hulking figure of a man slouched down the trail. "The Bird Woman was at Froelich's room this evening," he muttered. "Wonder what for?"

He left the trail, entered the inclosure still distinctly outlined and approached the case. The first point of light flashed from the tiny electric lamp on his vest. He took a duplicate key from his pocket, felt for the padlock and opened it. The door swung wide. The light flashed the second time. Swiftly his glance swept the interior.

"But a fourth of her mother's gone. Elvira must have been with the Bird Woman and given them to her." Then he stood still. His keen eyes discovered the roll of bills hastily thrust back in the bottom of the case. He snatched them up, shut off the light, relocked the case by touch and swiftly went down the trail. Every few seconds he paused and listened intently. Just as he reached the road the low howl of a screech owl waveringly prolonged fell on his ears, and he stopped. An instant later a second figure approached him.

"Is it you, Pete?" came the whispered question.

"Yes," said the first man. "I was coming down to take a peep when I saw your flash," he said. "I heard the Bird Woman had been at the case today. Anything doing?"

"Not a thing," said Pete. "She just took away about a fourth of the mother. Probably had the Comstock girl getting them for her. Heard they got together. Likely she'll get the rest tomorrow. Ain't picking getting bare these days?"

"Well, I should say so," said the second man, turning back in disgust. "Coming home now?"

"No, I am going down this way," answered Pete, for his eyes caught the gleam from the window of the Comstock cabin, and he had a desire to learn why Elvira's attic was lighted at that hour.

He slouched down the road, occasionally feeling the size of the roll he had not taken time to count. He chuckled frequently.

"Feels fat enough to pay," he whispered. "Well, I beat you just about seven minutes."

The attic was too long, the light too near the other end, and the cabin stood much too far back from the road. He could see nothing, although he climbed the fence and walked back opposite the window. He knew Mrs. Comstock was probably awake and that she sometimes went to the swamp behind her home at night. At times a cry went up from that locality that paralyzed any one near or sent them fleeing as if for life. He did not care to cross behind the cabin. He returned to the road, passed and again climbed the fence. Opposite the west window he could see Elvira. She sat before a small table reading from a book between two candles. Her hair fell in a bright sheen around her, and with one hand she lightly shook and tossed it as she studied. The man stood out in the night and watched.

For a long time a leaf turned occasionally and the hair-drying went on. The man drew nearer. The picture grew more beautiful as he approached. He could not see as well as he desired, for the screen was of white mosquito netting, and it angered him. He cautiously crept closer. The elevation shut off his view. Then he remembered the great willow tree shading the well and branching across the window at the west end of the cabin. From childhood Elvira had stepped from the sill to a limb and slid down the slanting trunk of the tree. He reached it and noiselessly swung himself up. Three steps out on the big limb the man shuddered. He was within a few feet of the girl.

Elvira closed the book and laid it aside. She picked up a towel and, turning the gathered ends of her hair, rubbed them across it and, dropping the towel on her lap, tossed the hair again. Then she sat in deep thought. By and by words began to come softly. Near as he was the man could not hear at first. He bent closer and listened intently.

"Over could be so happy," murmured the soft voice. "The dress is so pretty, such shows, the coat and everything. I won't have to be ashamed again, not ever again, for the Limberlost is full of precious moths, and I can always collect them. The Bird Woman will buy more tomorrow, and the next day, and the next. When they are all gone I can spend every minute gathering cocoons and hunting other things I can sell. Oh, thank God for my precious, precious money! Why, I didn't pray in vain after all! I thought when I asked the Lord to hide me, there in that big hall, that he wasn't doing it because I wasn't covered from sight that instant. But I'm hidden now; I feel that." Elvira lifted her eyes to the beams above her. "I don't know much about praying properly," she muttered, "but I do thank you, Lord, for hiding me in your own time and way."

Her face was so bright that it shone with a white radiance. Two big tears welled from her eyes and rolled down her smiling cheeks. "Oh, I do feel that you have hidden me," she breathed. Then she blew out the lights, and the little wooden bed creaked under her weight.

Pete Corson dropped from the limb and found his way to the road. He stood still a long time, then started back to the Limberlost. A tiny point of light flashed in the region of the case. He stepped with an oath.

"Another bound trying to steal from a girl," he exclaimed. "But it's likely he thinks if he gets anything it will be from a woman who can afford it, as I did."

He went on, but beside the fences and very cautiously.

"Swamp seems to be alive tonight," he muttered. "That's three of us out."

He entered a deep place at the northwest corner, sat on the ground, and, taking a pencil from his pocket, he tore a leaf from a little notebook and laboriously wrote a few lines by the light he carried. Then he went back to the region of the case and waited. Before his eyes swept the vision of the slender white creature with tossing hair. He smiled and worshipped it until a distant rooster faintly announced dawn.

Then he unlocked the case again and replaced the money, laid the note upon it and went back to concealment, where he remained until Elvira came down the trail in the morning, looking very lovely in her new dress and hat.

She had had a great struggle with her hair. It crinkled, billowed and shone, and she could not avoid seeing the becoming frame it made around her face. But in deference to her mother's feelings the girl set her teeth and bound her hair close to her head with a shoestring. "Not to be changed at the case," she told herself.

That her mother was watching she was unaware. Just as she picked up the beautiful brown ribbon Mrs. Comstock spoke.

"You had better let me do that. You can't reach behind yourself and do it right."

Elvira gave a little gasp. Her mother never before had proposed to do anything for the girl that by any possibility she could do herself. Her heart quivered at the thought of how her mother would arrange that bow, but Elvira dared not refuse. The offer was too precious. It might never be made again.

"Oh, thank you!" said the girl, and, sitting down, she held out the ribbon.

Her mother stood back and looked at her critically.

"You haven't got that like Miss Slinton had it last night," she announced. "You'll like it! You've tried to plaster it down to suit me, and you missed it. I liked it away better as Miss fixed it after I saw it. You didn't look so peaked."

When Elvira looked in the glass the bow was perfectly tied, and how the gold tone of the brown did match the luster of the shining hair! Just then Wesley Slinton came to the door.

"Good morning," he cried heartily. "Elvira, you look a picture. My, but you're sweet. If any of them city boys get messy you tell your Uncle Wesley and he'll horsewhip them. Here's your Christmas present from me."

He handed Elvira the leather lunch box, with her name carved across the strap in artistic lettering.

"Oh, Uncle Wesley!" and that was all Elvira could say.

"Your Aunt Maggie filled it for me for a starter," he said. "Now, if you are ready I'm going to drive past your way and you can ride along to One-busha with me and save the new shoes that much."

Elvira slipped the strap and turned back the lid. This disclosed the knife, fork, napkins and spoon, the milk shaker and the interior packed with dainty sandwiches wrapped in tissue paper, and the little compartments for meat, salad and the custard cup.

"Oh, mother!" cried Elvira. "Oh, mother, isn't it fine? What made you think of it, Uncle Wesley? How will I ever thank you? No one will have a finer lunch box than I. Oh, I do!"

thank you. That's the nicest gift I ever had. Now I love Christmas in September."

"It's a mighty handy thing," assented Mrs. Comstock, taking in every detail with sharp eyes. "I guess you are glad now you went and helped Mag and Wesley when you could, Elvira?"

"Daddy, yes," laughed Elvira, "and I'm going again first time they have a big day if I stay out of school to do it."

"You'll do no such thing," said the delighted Slinton. "Come now, if you're going!"

"If I ride can you spare me time to run into the swamp to my box just a minute?" asked Elvira.

The light she had seen the previous night troubled her.

"Sure," said Wesley largely. He was having such a good time nothing could hurry him. So they drove away and left a white faced woman watching them from the door, her heart just a little sorer than usual.

"I'd give a pretty to hear what he'll say to her," she said bitterly. "Always sticking in, always doing things I can't ever afford. Where on earth did he get that thing and what did it cost?"

Helps A Judge in Bad Fix.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Illinois Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had caused several doctors and long related, all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Buckle's Arnica Salve, and was completely cured. Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and piles. 25 cents at People's Drug Co."

About Names.

In the days when people and names were fewer than now, families received names that really meant something. They were Bakers and Brewers and Taylors and Chandlers and Wheelwrights and the like; or else their names described their appearance, or the places in which they lived, or the hopes to which they were bred. "The old and well-known firm of I. Catichien and U. Cheatem might come under this head. Nobody knows just when the Christian name was added as a more distinctive feature, or why the James and Marins should belong to England, the Mims and Folletts to France, the Grechens and Hedwigs to Germany, the Bridgets and Noras to Ireland and the Caroltas and Eulalias to Spain and Italy.

High Price for Rare Etching.

Collectors of etchings and engravings must occasionally pay high prices for their treasures. A Rembrandt print, "Jan Sylvius," signed by the artist and dated 1646, brought at auction recently $1,025.

Book Friendship.

I never come into a library (saith Heiniaus) but I bilt the door to me, excluding lust, ambition, avarice and all such vices, whose nurse is idleness, the mother of ignorance and melancholy herself, and in the very lap of eternity, among so many divine souls, I take my seat with no lofty spirit and sweet content that I pity all our great ones and rich men that know not their happiness.—Robert Burton.

The Demons of the Swamp.

ate mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the chills and the fever of fever. The appetite flies and the strength falls; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. Get at People's Drug Co.

What He Wanted.

A very bald-headed man went into a barber shop in the American house in our town and, plumping himself down in the chair, said: "Haircut!" Ed, the barber, looked at him a moment, and replied: "Why, man, you don't need a haircut, what you want is a shine."—Lippincott's.

Made in Janesville

A great deal of meaning can be derived from the heading "Made in Janesville." It means that the money spent in the manufacture of such articles, stays at home. That the capital for the manufacturing plants is invested here. That the men employed are Janesville men, and that all the profit derived from the manufacture of goods in Janesville will stay in Janesville. It is of direct benefit to each citizen that every home in dustry be given a loyal support.

Famous Manuscripts Bought After.

Manuscripts of famous books of the present time and of the future will probably be of little interest to bibliographers as compared with those of the past, for nearly all book manuscripts are now typewritten,

First Dutch Comedian—Necessity is the mother of invention.
Second Dutch Comedian—Yaw—and invitation is der sincerest flattery.

Mrs. Newwood—Who who rocks the cradle rules the world, don't forget that.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

It is indeed a blessed thing that lots of words will rhyme with Spring; there's wing and ring and sing and bring, and fifty-seven more, by Jingo! And when we've written "sunlit loam," we've had our choice of from and boom, and breeze and swoon and floss and cheese, and sundry other words like those. And when we speak of "azure skies," we have a stock of lilacs and pines, and styls and sighs and maddens' eyes—oh, watch the sweet affluence rise! There are so many words that rhyme, the poet has an easy time; there's elms and thyme and crime and prime, and how and then perhaps a dime! Of course we have to ring in babbling streams, which bring round to twilight dreams, and then, as inspiration steams, we reach for themes and schemes and rhymes. We must

SPRING POETRY refer to albinos, would it we de-liver would the goods, and this leads up to noble pines, suggesting vines and twines and shins. Oh thunder! Any healthy bard could loaf around in his back yard and write spring poems by the mile along the old-fashioned woodland paths, the same old burlesque babbling, brooks! The same old birds on joyous wing, the same old strings!

Long Hair and Short Pay.
Literary endeavors are not always rewarded so highly as some may think, according to this story from a German paper. A novelist, of longer hair than pocketbook, recently met a friend on the street. "Hurrah!" cried the author. "I have sold a novel." "Congratulations!" his friend said, warmly. "And now you can get a haircut." "The writer's face fell." "No," he replied, "I should have to sell two novels for that."—Youth's Companion.

Escapes an Awful Fate.
A thousand tongues could not express the gratitude of Mrs. J. E. Cox, of Joliet, Ill., for her wonderful deliverance from an awful fate. "Typhoid pneumonia had left me with a dreadful cough," she writes. "Sometimes I had such awful coughing spells I thought I would die. I could get no help from doctor's treatment or other medicines till I used Dr. King's New Discovery. But I owe my life to this wonderful remedy for I scarcely cough at all now." Quick and safe is the most reliable of all throat and lung medicines. Every bottle guaranteed, 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottle free at People's Drug Co.
